LAB-GROWN DIAMONDS

SAME PROPERTIES AS NATURAL DIAMONDS

GREATER VALUE · MORE DESIGN FLEXIBILITY

Lab-grown diamonds are created by replicating the natural diamond formation process.

They share the same physical and chemical properties as natural diamonds, while offering several unique advantages.

Exceptional Color Range

From colorless to vivid hues, lab-grown diamonds provide outstanding color consistency and saturation.

High Purity & Brilliance

Precisely controlled conditions result in fewer impurities, delivering superior clarity, brilliance, and fire.

Sustainable & Responsible

No mining required — reducing environmental impact and resource consumption.

Better Value

More accessible pricing makes the beauty of diamonds available to a wider audience.

MOISSANITE

SAME PROPERTIES AS DIAMONDS
BRIGHTER BRILLIANCE · HIGH HARDNESS

Natural moissanite was first discovered in meteorites from outer space. In 1894, it was identified by French scientist Henri Moissan.

It has unique optical properties, including strong brilliance and double refraction.

However, natural moissanite is extremely rare and not suitable for jewelry use.

Today, moissanite used in jewelry is lab-created.

It is made from silicon carbide (SiC) using advanced technology.

Lab-created moissanite offers exceptional brilliance, durability, and consistency. It is also more affordable, making it a popular choice for modern jewelry.

MOISSANITE QUALITY

5A GRADE · EXCELLENT CUT · D COLOR · VVS1 CLARITY

COLOR

D–F color range, near colorless with exceptional brightness.

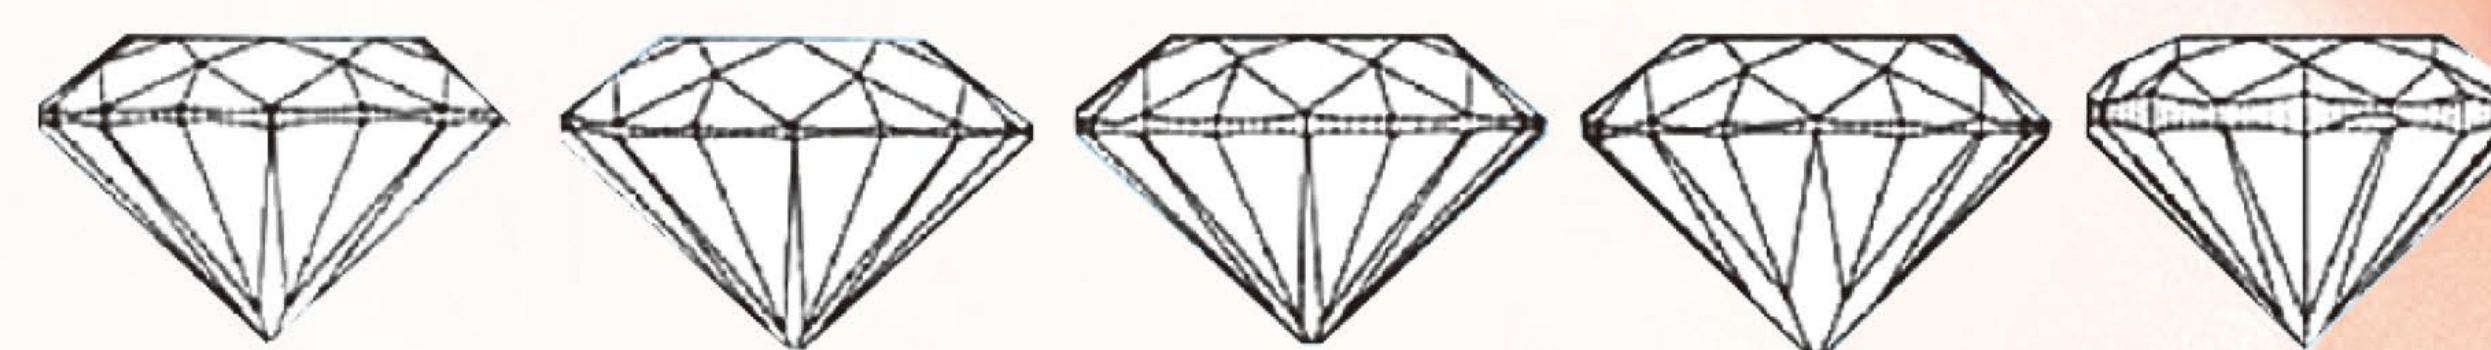

Near colorless brilliance

CUT

Excellent cutting ensures maximum brilliance and fire.
